Raytelligence - signs an agreement with Viser AB

Raytelligence has signed a reseller agreement with Viser www.viser.se regarding Viser being given the right to sell the eazense radar sensor with associated cloud service to existing and new customers.

Viser is a Swedish company that offers security alarm systems in health and care to several municipalities and private care providers.

The agreement is proof that Raytelligence's strategy of integrating with carefully selected partners is the right way to go to carry out the services in the market to end users, says Klas Arvidson, CEO, Raytelligence

With Raytelligence's radar technology, Viser can further strengthen its portfolio with forward-looking security services for health and care.

Through radar technology, healthcare staff can receive notifications about different types of risky situations that contribute to increased security for care recipients as well as increased efficiency for staff. Of course, the function is fully integrated in Viser's security alarm application, says Tom Lundius, Sales & Marketing Manager, Viser
